Jeffersontown possesses many of these elements, but unfortunately, like every other town, it has a few "knockers" who, without being able to think, chatter pessimistically with the idea that noise makes them prominent; it does, but only enough so to emphasize their lack of sense. If you can't say anything good about the town and its enterprises, shut up, or go down yourself. Selah!

THE STATE COLLEGE OF KENTUCKY

LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY.

The State College of Kentucky offers the following courses, namely, Agricultural, Mechanical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Mining Engineering, Normal School, Classical and seven Scientific courses, each of which extends over four years and leads to the Bachelor's degree. Each course is organized under a separate faculty. The general faculty, consisting of professors, assistant professors and instructors, numbers over fifty.

County appointees receive free tuition, privilege of residence in dormitories, fuel and lights and traveling expenses, if they remain in the consecutive months, or one collegiate year.

The laboratories and museums are large, well equipped, comprehensive and modern. Military Science is fully provided for as required by Congress.

Graduates in several courses of study readily find employment with liberal remuneration. The total number of matriculates last year was 901.
Each department has a specialist at its head, with the necessary number of assistants.

Summer schools are provided for in Pedagogy, Engineering, and Instruction in Science and Library Arts.

The young women find an excellent home, with board and lodging, in Patterson Hall, which is well equipped with modern conveniences, bathrooms, hall for physical culture, at $3.00 per week. All other courses of study in the College are open to young women upon identical conditions with those applying to males.

The attendance upon the Normal School in connection with the Department of Education last year more than doubled that of any preceding year.

Three new buildings, namely, one for the department of Education, one for Agricultural Science, and a Library Hall, are in process of erection and will be completed early in the next collegiate year.

FAIRMOUNT

Onions Proving Profitable Crop and Shipments are Heavy—Several Accidents and One Victim of Heat.

Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson, of the Highlands, are visiting the Jamestown Exposition. Before their return they will visit Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore and Washington.
While in Washington they will stop with Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Thixton.
Herman Graham is visiting his aunt, Miss Ruby Foster.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Phillips, of Louisville, are visiting relatives in this community.
Mrs. Wm. Farmer visited Mrs. A.
E. Johnson, of the Highlands, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hart, Miss Lizzie Goepfer and Mr. Fred Ziegler were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ziegler.

Miss Lula Johnson has returned from Louisville. While there she attended the Sunday School picnic given by the East Baptist church at Fern Grove.

Miss Alpha Thixton is visiting her sisters, Mrs. P. T. Evans and Miss Paulina Noe in Indianapolis. The latter fell from a street car recently and fractured her arm.

Earl, the son of Dr. Edward Woodrow, of Monticello, who is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Wm. Woodrow, fell from his bicycle and cut a long gash in his leg. Dr. Farmer found it necessary to take several stitches to close the wound.

A son of Martin Risinger fractured his arm this week.

A few days since, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wise fractured his arm.
Alex Ziegler was prostrated from heat while working in the garden.

Roy Simms will shortly erect a general merchandise store in our town. He will put considerable capital into his business and have everything up-to-date.

Howard Lyons is preparing to erect a nice residence on the site of his old one. The place is known as the "Aunt" Betsy Young home.

The onion business is still going on here, and quite a large number of our citizens are reaping a rich harvest in currency from this source. It is no uncommon sight to look out on six to ten wagons carrying from ten to forty barrels of the odoriferous bulbs all in sight at once, and moving on to Buechel, whence they are carried Northward by carloads. Prices have been good, too, the growers receiving as high as $3.25 per barrel in some instances. Several of our citizens have cleared more than a $1,000 each, and some as much as $1,500 on their crop.
Say not that you have all the money, enterprise and general get-up, oh, Jeffersontown and Harrod's Creek!
Several of the map, too, and if there is a little man anywhere who wishes to work, send him here, but in the care of an officer of the law, lest we might have an old time fight over the question of whom he shall work for. Rollin tells us of the diet of the laborers who built the Pyramids of Egypt consisting mainly of leeks and onions, the amount being inscribed on the stones of the structure; but Rab-bison orders you get Egypt to shame if he compared onions with her today, and onions mean dollars.

HARROD'S CREEK

Improved School Facilities—Site Surveyed for Tuberculosis Sanitarium—Law Wanted to Regulate Automobiles.

Major J. C. Claybrook, chief engineer of Louisville, last week made a topographical survey of the J. H.
Byran farm near Prospect. This is one of the three places offered as a location for the sanitarium for tuberculosis patients.

The "Always Busy Club," composed of the Sunday school children of the Harrod's Creek Presbyterian church, gave an ice cream social on Wednesday evening of last week, and despite the threatening weather, met with financial success. Quite a number from Louisville, as well as from the surrounding neighborhood, attended.

At the next session of the Legislature some law should be enacted regulating the speed of automobiles on our country roads. All chauffeurs should be required to pass examinations as to efficiency before being permitted to endanger lives and property by reckless driving. Some of the negro drivers are especially careless, as they seem to feel that they have the owners of the motor cars to back them up in their actions.

As it is now, many people are afraid to venture out on the road for fear of meeting an automobile, when many times the owner or driver seems to take a delight in seeing a frightened horse.

A well attended meeting was held at the residence of Judge Alex P.
Humphrey at Glenview last week by the ladies of Harrod's Creek precinct, who are interested in having a good school at Harrod Creek. This year we will have a 9 month school taught by a graduate of the Louisville Normal school, and if the results are as satisfactory, an addition will be made to the school building next year and two teachers employed.

A committee from the Louisville Golf Club, accompanied by an expert from Chicago, has been looking over the John S. Waters farm and "Hutton Hills" with a view to selecting a portion of each tract for a course.

Woodmen's Picnic a Success—Death of Miss Alice Kramer, After a Protracted Illness—Personal Points.

Miss Elizabeth Graff, of Buechel, visited Miss Ella Schneider Sunday.

The picnic given by the Woodmen of the World at this place Saturday was a financial success.

Miss Katie Westernman had as her guests Sunday, Misses Addie Rauche and Emma Shoelau.

Miss Margaret Reeder attended the convention of the Young People's Circle held at St. John's church last week.

Miss Lillie Reeder entertained a number of her friends Sunday.

Henry Balke, his daughter Alvina, Miss Mattie Brumley and Conrad Gutermuth, have returned from an extended visit in the East, after attending the Knights Templar convocaat Saratoga.

The musicians of the Winkler Band, which is named in honor of its master, Adam Winkler, did themselves credit at the Woodmen picnic Saturday.

After an illness of four months, Miss Alice Kramer, a daughter of Chris Kramer, died of typhoid fever Sunday morning at Norton Infirmary in Louisville. Miss Kramer was twenty years of age, and is survived by her parent, who have the sympathy of the neighborhood in their great loss. The funeral took place Monday, followed by the burial in Eastern cemetery.

WILLY S. HAYS.

Sometimes for gold, and some, alas, for glory.
Some touched by inspiration from above.
But let our friend live deathless in our story As one who sang for love:
Come let us crown him where he reposes Not with the common laurel nor the bay Nor cast about him those old fashioned roses He loved but yesterday.

From love affection clothes him with the splendor He wears now before.
This singer of the people, he whose tender Dear songs are heard no more;
His fancy never soared into the portal Of fame's is uplifted dome, But filled with earthly love he made immortal The strains he breathed of home.

He went along life's highway gayly faring Undaunted and serene, Upon his faithful heart forever wearing Dear Erin's shamrock green;
He breathed of love, he sang of hope and pity, All things love shines apart, His name a household word in town and city His picture in each heart.

Until life died down in the smouldering embers He gave as genius gives Eyes, gave what love inspired and love remembers And in love's memory lives.
And thus he dwelt and sang among God's creatures His mission from above
The kindest and the tenderest of life's teachers Whose gospel was all love.

So now upon the grave where he reposes Far from the noisy throngs Cast down your burden of old fashioned roses As lovely as his songs:
Oh! they shall be as sentinels to guard him Here in the rain and sun, Till God who gave him spirit shall reward him Whose little day is done.

DESIRE FOR A CHANGE.

A Childish Trait That Clings to Us in Later Years.

"When we were children," said the head of a big department store, "do you remember how delighted we were with new toys, and how quickly we tired of them? I don't suppose that we tired of them quite so quickly as the children do nowadays, for we didn't have quite so many of them. But tire of what we had we did; it's only human nature, you know, to regard a thing as of diminishing importance when once it is in our possession."

"The application of what I'm saying is in relation to the same trait as shown by men and women. A trait which is my business life I've had plenty of opportunities to study. It's all a fallacy about our growing up in every way; there are lots of childish things that we don't outgrow, and never will, and this getting tired of toys is one of them. The toys change, but not the trait. One of the secrets of establishing successful trade is recognition of this fact. People don't want novelties so much because they are novelties as because a change is welcome, whether in wearing apparel, articles of ornament, house furnishings, or means of conveyance."

"I have to think what will happen to the automobile business when airships come in. When we are used to a thing, we can't get in the least excited about it, and as pleasureable excitement, I think, is what most of us young and old are after in this day and generation. I don't know that, in the last analysis, we are very much worse than our ancestors in this particular, but this age moves more rapidly than any previous one, and naturally, we show the effects. We simply have more chances to be off with the old and on with the new, and it's come to be a point of honor to avail ourselves of these chances up to the limit of our purses."
